It's that time again!!

The ACDCA 2015 National Specialty is quickly approaching.

Dingo Bingo is one of the highlights of our festivities - just ask anyone who has attended :-)

Besides being LOTS of fun, the funds raised go to health research in our beloved breed.

We've raised Thousands of dollars per year in the past and can't do it without your help.

Any and all donations accepted - big or small, doesn't matter. You can bring your items to the Nationals (which is preferred, if possible, as I have dogs to pack in my minivan too) or send to me at my work address below.

Any questions - please email jilarooacd@aol.com or call 404-274-9796.

THANKS in advance for your generous donations!!

Memories in Murfreesboro

By Amanda O'Dell

My first ACDCA Nationals was a very eye opening experience. I haven't been very far out of Florida, so when I found out Nationals were in Tennessee I was very excited to see a new place. It took me and my mother awhile to pack because we didn't know what to bring for the climate. We stopped numerous times just to take pictures of the beautiful sights along the way. It was a great time to travel because it was fall and all the leaves were changing, which led to a colorful trip.

Once we arrived at MTSU in Murfreesboro, TN we met up with my herding instructor, Deb Mintzer, who gave us a quick tour of the grounds and introduced us to lots of new people. It was amazing to see so many cattle dogs in one place. Seeing all the events that others compete in with their cattle dogs made me realize how many things I can participate in with my own dog.

The 2014 Nationals was also my first herding trial. It was a very scary time because I have only been herding since June and was not sure what to expect. I had heard that the stock was not always easy to manage which made me very skeptical of my abilities. Neither of my sheep runs went well, they both ended in tears. My cattle runs went better although my dog and I did not qualify due to handler error. I did learn that if you make it to number 5 always let your stock out of the arena. Even though we didn't qualify I was very proud that my dog, Bea, and I tried our best.

In the end my week spent at Nationals was full of tears, laughs, and achievements. I will cherish the memories I came home with and look forward to making new ones at next year's Nationals.
