Conformation Critique with Judge Connie Redhead

I would like to thank the American Australian Cattle Dog Club for inviting me to judge the 2015 National at Purina Farms, Gray Summit, Missouri, it has been an honour to have judged the National once again.

I was little disappointed with quite a few of the dogs, as I felt the breed has deteriorated in true type since I last judged the National here in 2006.

This is what I feel you should consider to improve that type

Heads:

The breed is lacking in under jaw now. Remember If you do not have the correct strong underjaw the dog will lose the power to do the job for which he is bred. I found quite a few dogs lacking in fill under the eyes. This is very important as this helps cushion any blows the animal may sustain while working.

Eye Colour:

This is a very big problem in the breed now, breeding light eye to light eye will mean this problem is not improved upon. Please start using quality dogs with dark eyes at stud.

Ears:

Some ears I found were too big and incorrectly shaped, some ears were set too high on the head and very pointed rather than moderately pointed.

Neck and fronts

Although the standard calls for a strong medium length of neck I found quite a few dogs with very short necks leading to the problem of upright shoulder blades. If the neck is not the correct length then the front angulation will not be well angulated and then that leads to the problem of not being able to do what this breed was bred for. If the neck is correct length, the front well angulated with a corresponding layback of upper arm then the dog will have a correct prosternum and depth of chest. This will lead to good round bone with flex at the pastern and the correct round foot. Please keep this in mind in your breeding program.

Topline and croup:

I found a few dogs without level topline, this is usually caused by lack of ribbing something else to look out for. So many of the dogs lacked correct croup with correct tail set. Quite a few dogs were high in the rump which will cause lack of rear angulation and long hocks. Some dogs had tails that ran straight off the back which is also incorrect. The croup should be smooth, long and sloping with well developed flanks and if this is correct then the tail set will be correct.

Movement:

This is problematic in the breed here; some dogs flicked their wrist out on the move telling me they were loose in shoulder which made them move close in front. There were a few also loose in hock. Soundness of paramount importance is a very important phrase in our standard.

Size:

I was happy to find dogs not oversized but a few were undersized so below the 18 inches (46 cms) for a dog and 17 inches (43 cms) for a bitch. If the breed gets too small we will lose bone and strength and they will never be able to work cattle as required.

Temperament:

Most temperaments were good and the very few that backed off me just lacked socialising and handling, it is very important to do this from a puppy.

Overall I feel breeders in the USA need to really look at their breeding programs before it is too late, use the right dog to compliment your bitch even if it is owned by your enemy, we are the guardians of this magnificent breed and we must all work together to improve the type and keep the dog that is capable of fulfilling the role for which it was originally bred. Look to the old breeders who will tell you, it isn't easy breeding the correct show and working dog it takes time, study, know the standard, study anatomy, be prepared for heart aches along the way and if you are breeding correctly then you will preserve the true Australian Cattle Dog.

Best of Breed Winner:

This dog was the type I was looking for. Well balanced; correct masculine head; good eye; strong underjaw; with a good bite and full dentition. Strong medium length of neck; well angulated shoulders with excellent strong bone, feet round with well arched toes, strong level back, this dog kept his top line on the move and was sound coming and going. An excellent specimen.

Opposition Sex Winner:

A lovely young red Bitch, with correct head, correct eye colour; strong underjaw; good length of neck; shoulders well laid, strong round bone with correct feet; correct length of body and tail set; moved well, over all a quality bitch.

Winners Dog:

I felt this dog was by far the winner. He had a lovely head; with correct eye shape and colour; strong round bone, correct body length; with correct tail set; I would have liked to have seen him extend more when he moved although he was sound going and coming; I would have liked his colour to have been cleaner, a red dog should not have a blue tinge through his coat.

Winners Bitch:

Another quality bitch with a feminine head that had the correct eye, strong round bone; strong level top-line; would like to have seen her move with more ease; I felt she needed more reach and drive.

She was my best of winners for the reason I felt her colour was cleaner than the dog, other than that they were very even.

My other winners were of very good quality. The things I have written about need to be addressed.

In the 9 years since I last judged your National I feel that the quality of the breed has gone down a little so I hope you take my advice to heart in this write up so next time In see improvement and we all get to see the dog that is most important to us all the Stunning Australian Cattle Dog.
